

AFTER EASTER SALE

Of Wool Suits and Coats Now Going On

Adhering to our policy to carry nothing over from one season to another if price will move it, we offer our entire line of Wool Coats and Suits at prices to make quick selling. We are not offering you inflated values, we can't offer you $50.00 Suits at $15.00, that is unreasonable unless they are some old shop worn goods.

We have none of that kind to offer you, we haven't an old Suit or Coat in the house, everything we offer you is this Spring's Merchandise.

The people have learned to know that when we advertise a cut it is a genuine cut and not a lot of blow.

Our goods are all marked in plain figures and you can see the reduction for yourself. We ask you to come and see the Merchandise and get our prices before you buy.

Our regular prices are very often cheaper than most of the so-called cut prices you read of in the papers.

This sale will continue until every Wool Suit and Coat in our store has been disposed of. The sooner you come the better selection you will have.

BEST CHANCE IN LONG RUNS

Tiger May Win in 4-mile and 2-mile Events at Des Moines.

Ten members of the Missouri track team are on the way to Des Moines, where they will compete tomorrow afternoon in the Drake relay carnival. They left Columbia at 2:40 o'clock this morning, and are expected to arrive in Des Moines about 9 o'clock tonight.

Four relay races will be run in each of which Missouri has entered a team. They will consist of 4-mile, a 2-mile, a mile and an 880-yard relay. Chicago, Kansas, Nebraska, South Dakota, Iowa, Ames, Drake and Cornell will be represented. T. E. Jones, instructor in athletics, who accompanied the team, expects Chicago University to win the majority of the relay.

"They are strong in the mile and 2-mile relays," he said this morning. "They are said to have four quarter-milers, each one as fast as Belmont. Nebraska is strong in the 880-yard relay. Missouri's chances are best in the 4-mile and 2-mile relays."

The men that made the trip are: Steele, Johnson, Bernoni, Shockley, Moss, Kirksey, Wilder, Estes, Catron, Robinson and Kobroch. Estes did not leave Columbia on the morning train, but he followed this afternoon.

DID THE MIRRORS ENJOY IT?

Rehearsal of "Trelawney of the Wells" in Academic Hall Last Night.

Doubtless between pink teas and Japanese bazzars, and German plays, not to mention its everyday life, the Women's Parlor of the University of Missouri have witnessed strange performances, but the big mirrors say after due reflection that they cannot remember of ever having reflected on anything just like the rehearsal of "Trelawney of the Wells" last night.

The big mirror on the right was extremely disgusted with prim old Aunt Trelawney who was so afraid that something would be "quite out of place," but the mirror on the left said that a mirror of all things ought not to get tired of this; for what does a mirror do continually but tell people when things are and are not quite in place?

The mirror on the left is a little timid about the men, anyway, having always lived in the parlors and seeing only little of them. Its frame shook in the second act when Gadd grew jealous because his wife insisted on calling Colpoys "Gussie dear," and Gadd knuckled Gussie and a table down and it looked as if the mirrors turn were next.

Not the least annoying part of it was that they kept the lights shining in the mirror's eyes until nearly 11 o'clock, an hour when respectable mirrors are supposed to be in bed. However the plot of the play was interesting that they didn't get sleepy. Really they felt almost sorry when the fourth act was finished and they had gotten their last glimpse of Miss Rose Trelawney, late of the "Wells"—at least the actors and actresses believe so.

ADVERTISEMENTS

A STRAIGHT TIP.

I see there are a few guys left Who'll say "I told you so" And rub it in when you lose out And say "You missed it, bo." There's nothing that will peeve a guy And kind of get his goat Like when he overlooks a bet And that "I told you note" Is the tune they all are playing. Why when "Hundred Dollar Bill" Was here I up and missed it And it seemed like every pill Especially Eds and Co-eds Was a whistling "Willy Nil."

Well, I see there'll be another show, "Trelawney of the Wells." I guess it'll be a good 'un Because everybody tell Me that all the people in it Are an actifying bunch. A fellow that saw them rehearse Gave me my little hunch.

I've read the play and it's a peach. Say, some o' that comedy's great; And those love scenes? The guy's in luck

That does those later-tates. I'm anxious to find out just how Miss Raithe's going to be; Miss Barrymore's in the same part An' it wouldn't surprise me If after the performance here She'd be asked to resign And Frohman would come out and get Miss Jess Raithe to sign.

Well, so long; I must be goin' There's that everlastin' bell. But list to this; now don't you miss "Trelawney of the Wells."

A post graduate piano recital will be given Saturday evening, April 22d, at a quarter past eight, in the Christian College Auditorium, by Walter B. Roberts, assisted by Mrs. Tyra M. Green, soprano. The recital is open to all who may be interested, without charge. The program: Sonata in A flat, Weber—Mr. Roberts; The Perfect Year, Matthews—Mrs. Green; Des Abends, Grillen, Schumann; Moment Musical, Schubert; Die Forelle, Schubert; Heller—Mr. Roberts; I Love You So, Hawley; Violets, Muldenberg; Ecstasy, Rummel—Mrs. Green; Liebestraum, Liszt; Soiree de Vienne No. 6, Schubert—Liszt—Mr. Roberts.
